I founded Steel Pan Agency in 2010. I joined a steelband in 1994 and have always had a passion for the instrument. I spent my teenage years performing at prestigious events and traveling around Europe. During university I was advised to make money from what I know. For this reason I knew since 2004 that I would be creating a Steel Pan Agency.

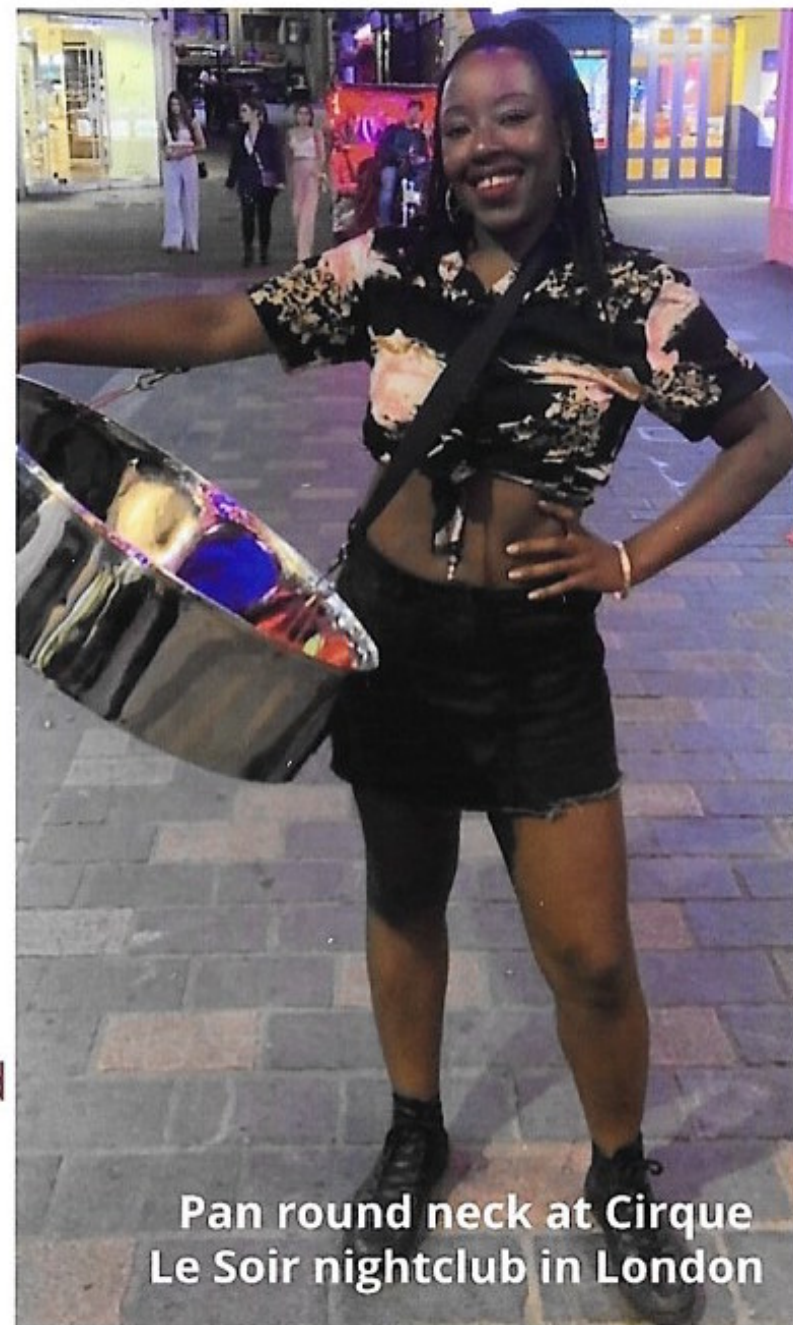

Initially when I formed the agency my vision for myself was to be an administrator for bookings. I did not envision myself delivering the actual services but it became necessary for the business to grow. I occasionally assisted during workshops and thanks to the encouragement of other tutors, in my second year of business, I was also delivering Steel Pan Agency services.

In 10 years I have become a specialist at delivering one-day workshops and very specifically for people with learning difficulties and special needs. Working with the latter groups is my passion.

My favourite thing to do is demonstrating that people of all abilities can take part in a steel pan workshop and how uniquely adaptable this instrument can be. On at least 30 occasions I have met someone with learning difficulties and by the end of the workshop they are playing a sequence of notes creating a lovely sound. This always results in care workers and staff crying literal tears of joy and disbelief. This is such a truly rewarding experience.

Schools were originally Steel Pan Agency's focus and main revenue stream. However as the years have progressed performances and workshops for corporate, private and community functions have become equally as popular.

The quality of our service is very high and reviews have been outstanding. I believe this is because I hand pick musicians that are able to maintain Steel Pan Agency high standards with their own unique styles.
